CHAIRMAN'S REPORT

On behalf of the board, I am delighted to present the Chairman's Report for 2007-08.

The Anika Foundation Strategy

The aims of the Anika foundation are:

- To raise an endowment fund, the income of which is used to fund scholarships in the area of adolescent depression and suicide.
- To raise awareness in the community generally about the vastness of the issue.

The past year has been very successful for the Anika Foundation in achieving the above aims. The Board, encouraged by some of our corporate donors, decided to accelerate the provision of scholarships, i.e. to make more grants before the corpus of the Foundation was sufficient to fund them permanently from income. Two years ago we launched the Premier's Anika Foundation Youth Depression Awareness Scholarships, before they were fully funded (encouraged by one of our supporters, Tudor). With the public generosity for mental health issues rising significantly in recent years, and through the generous support of our new donors, these are now fully funded.

This year, encouraged by another corporate partner, we are launching The Macquarie Foundation PhD Scholarship in Adolescent Depression and Suicide, through the Anika Foundation. This scholarship is for 3 years, in the first instance, in which time the Board will need to raise the corpus significantly to ensure that its funding too can be put on a permanent basis (paid for out of income indefinitely into the future).

The reason the Board has taken these steps, is to achieve our two-pronged approach to making a difference in the area of adolescent depression and suicide: (i) identification and awareness, and (ii) diagnosis and treatment.

Youth Depression Awareness

The school scholarships are focused on the first part of the issue: identification. Schools are very much in the front line of the youth depression issue, and quite often it is the case that friends of young people who suffer know much more than parents or teachers. The Anika Foundation scholarships are a highly-levered effective way to enhance the identification of depressed children in schools.

- They are advertised in every school in NSW.
- Successful applicants undertake a study tour (consistent with their winning proposals) to schools and institutions in other parts of the world with successful adolescent depression programs and expertise. The Department of Education and Training gives the winners 4 weeks leave on full pay, as a complement to the scholarship (this is at the discretion of school principals in the case of private schools).
- Successful applicants also benefit from a course at the Black Dog Institute.
- On their return, the findings from the study tour are published by the Department, and circulated to all schools in NSW.
- The scholars also give seminars in other schools to share their experiences (ideas for which are encouraged in the application and selection process).

Other activities of the Foundation in the area of 'awareness' include speaking at schools and conferences on the subject of youth depression issues, publishing research on our website www.anikafoundation.org, and linking our website to other self-help groups.

Diagnosis and Treatment

While school teachers and counsellors are critical in the identification process (along with community programs like Beyond Blue, Reach Out, Depressionnet, etc.), treatment is the other half of the story. This is very important, particularly for clinically depressed children (as opposed to those exhibiting strategic behaviour due to familial situations).

For example, prescribing serotonin uptake inhibitors and other drugs is to some extent a trial-and-error process. In the case of Anika, she was being taken down on one drug before beginning on a course in another. This is a very dangerous time. Indeed it was exactly in this period that Anika died. An example of an important research topic, therefore, is to better target medication, to reduce the randomness in the prescription process. There are numerous projects like this, of strong relevance to the treatment of adolescent depression and suicide.

Fund Raising Activities for the Year Ending 30 June 2006 included:

Friends and Colleagues

We continued to get incredible support from friends and colleagues. In the past year we had personal donations of amounts up to $10,000 from individuals, and also repeat donations from people who feel very strongly about the issue. In one case, the Board was pleased to notice that one young woman, a school friend of Anika, recommended the Foundation for her company's charitable donations program.

Glenn Stevens' Speech on the Conduct of Monetary Policy

On the 18th of July 2007 the Anika Foundation held its second annual fund raiser at which Glenn Stevens, Governor of the Reserve Bank (and Director of the Anika Foundation), spoke to financial market participants to raise money for the Foundation's work. This year the event was co-hosted by Macquarie Bank at Sydney's prestigious Westin Hotel, and of course, once again, by the Australian Business Economists (ABE).

Glenn's speech was entitled "The Asian Crisis: A Retrospective". He took the audience back through the events of 10 years ago, and drew lessons for policy making today. Questions in the Q&A session covered the Australian dollar, the forthcoming inquiry into lending standards in Australia, the implications of excessive saving in Asia, and many more. Participants certainly enjoyed the event and learned a lot about current RBA thinking on policy in the Asian region.

The Board would like publicly to thank both Macquarie and the ABE for their strong support.

Corporate Donations

The Tudor Foundation once again supported the Anika Foundation, with a strong grant early in the year. Many companies also donated at Glenn Stevens' keynote event.

Raising Community Awareness

Further to raising money, the foundation focussed on raising awareness in the community.

Depression, self-harm and the risk of suicide are such big issues for our young people, both in Australia and all around the world. Mission Australia's National Youth Survey results have once again shown that suicide and self-harm are amongst the most pressing issues for young Australians.

The Premier's Anika Foundation Youth Depression Awareness Scholarships

Over the past year the first Youth Depression Awareness Scholars for school counsellors and teachers were chosen and went abroad to complete their investigations. The feedback has been so positive, that the Board decided to renew its commitment to the program a number of years.

Scholarship presentation day, August 2007

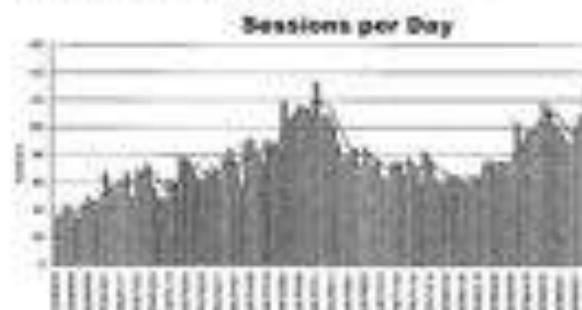

2008, the second year of the scholarships, has seen 11 new and very strong proposals submitted, including a number from country high-schools. To our surprise, there were no applications (once again) from private schools. This is a concern, as youth depression awareness crosses all school boundaries. The selection panel met in June 2008 to choose the 3 new winners. Daniel Blundell-Wignall and Jeff White once again represented The Anika Foundation on the panel. The winners will be announced in August 2008, and the scholarships will be awarded by the NSW Premier, Morris Iemma, at Government House.

The website is proving to be a huge success in raising the profile of the foundation on the topic of adolescent depression and suicide. In mid 2006 the site was averaging approximately 50 sessions per day. I am pleased to say that by June 2008 this rate has exceeded our expectations and more than doubled to 105 sessions per day. The Anika Foundation continues to rise sharply in its search engine rankings for key words and individual names.

The Board would like to take the opportunity here to stress that the scholarships are open to both government and private schools.

Momentum into 2008 - 2009

The third Glenn Stevens annual speech for the Anika Foundation should enable us to kick off the new financial year with a quick start. The event is to be held on 16 July 2008. This year the event is once again being co-sponsored by Macquarie Bank, who really does show the way in corporate interest in mental health and related youth issues.

I look forward to on-going success in 2008-2009. We hope to raise more money and, by so doing, enable our programs to be funded in a sustainable way. The next milestones for us are:

- To build our corpus from around $900,000 currently to $1.6 million (another $700,000) over the next 3 years.
- To look for other corporate partnerships that will enable us to extend our programs in this critically underfunded area of youth mental health.

Director

Independent auditor's report to the members of The Anika Foundation

We have audited the accompanying financial report of The Anika Foundation for the financial year ended 30 June 2008, which comprises the balance sheet as at 30 June 2008 and the income statement, statement of recognised income and expense and cash flow statement for the year then ended, a summary of significant accounting policies, other explanatory notes and the directors' declaration set out on pages 8 to 13.

Directors' responsibility for the financial report

The directors of the Company are responsible for the preparation and fair presentation of the financial report in accordance with Australian Accounting Standards (including the Australian Accounting Interpretations) and the Corporations Act 2001. This responsibility also includes establishing and maintaining internal control relevant to the preparation and fair presentation of the financial report that is free from material misstatement, whether due to fraud or error; selecting and applying appropriate accounting policies; and making accounting estimates that are reasonable in the circumstances. In note 2, the directors also state, in accordance with Australian Accounting Standard AASB 101 Presentation of Financial Statements, that the financial report, comprising the financial statements and notes, complies with International Financial Reporting Standards.

Auditor's responsibility

Our responsibility is to express an opinion on the financial report based on our audit. We conducted our audit in accordance with Australia's Auditing Standards. These Auditing Standards require that we comply with relevant ethical requirements relating to audit engagements and plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance whether the financial report is free from material misstatement.

An audit involves performing procedures to obtain audit evidence about the amounts and disclosures in the financial report. The procedures selected depend on the auditor's judgement, including the assessment of the risks of material misstatement of the financial report, whether due to fraud or error. In making those risk assessments, the auditor considers internal control relevant to the entity's preparation and fair presentation of the financial report in order to design audit procedures that are appropriate in the circumstances, but not for the purpose of expressing an opinion on the effectiveness of the entity's internal control. An audit also includes evaluating the appropriateness of accounting policies used and the reasonableness of accounting estimates made by the directors, as well as evaluating the overall presentation of the financial report.

We performed the procedures to assess whether in all material respects the financial report presents fairly, in accordance with the Corporations Act 2001 and Australian Accounting Standards (including the Australian Accounting Interpretations), a view which is consistent with our understanding of the Company's financial position and of its performance.

In addition, our audit report has also been prepared for the members of the company in accordance with Section 24(2) of the Charitable Fundraising (NSW) Act 1991. Accordingly we have performed additional work beyond that which is performed in our capacity as auditors pursuant to the Corporations Act 2001. These additional procedures included obtaining an understanding of the internal control structure for fundraising appeal activities and examination, on a test basis, of evidence supporting compliance with the accounting and associated record keeping requirements for fundraising appeal activities pursuant to the Charitable Fundraising (NSW) Act 1991 and Regulations.

It should be noted that the accounting records and data relied upon for reporting on fundraising appeal activities are not continuously audited and do not necessarily reflect after the event accounting adjustments and the normal year end financial adjustments for such matters as accruals, prepayments, provisioning and valuations necessary for year end financial report preparation.

We believe that the audit evidence we have obtained is sufficient and appropriate to provide a basis for our audit opinion.

Basis for qualified auditor's opinion

Fundraising revenue is a significant source of revenue for The Anika Foundation. The Anika Foundation has determined that it is impracticable to establish controls over the collection of fundraising revenue prior to entry into its financial records. Accordingly, as the evidence available to us regarding revenue from this source was limited, our audit procedures with respect to fundraising revenue had to be restricted to the amounts recorded in the financial records. We therefore are unable to express an opinion whether the fundraising revenue The Anika Foundation obtained is complete.

In respect of the qualification however, based on our understanding of the internal controls, nothing has come to our attention which would cause us to believe that the internal controls over revenue from fundraising appeal activities by the company are not appropriate given the size and nature of the company.

Qualified auditor's opinion pursuant to the Corporations Act 2001

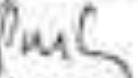

In our opinion, except for the effects on the financial report of such adjustments, if any, as might have been required had the limitation referred to in the qualification paragraph not existed, the financial report of The Anika Foundation is in accordance with:

- a) the Corporations Act 2001, including:
 - i. giving a true and fair view of the company's financial position as at 30 June 2008 and of its performance for the year ended on that date; and
 - ii. complying Australian Accounting Standards and the Corporations Regulations 2001; and
- b) the financial report also complies with International Financial Reporting Standards as disclosed in note 2.

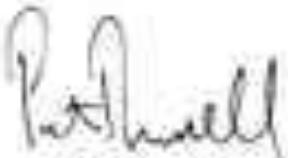

Qualified audit opinion pursuant to the Charitable Fundraising (NSW) Act 1991

In our opinion, except for the effects on the financial report of such adjustments, if any, as might have been required had the limitation referred to in the qualification paragraph not existed:

- a) the financial report gives a true and fair view of the financial result of fundraising appeal activities for the financial year ended 30 June 2008;
- b) the financial report has been properly drawn up, and the associated records have been properly kept for the period from 1 July 2007 to 30 June 2008, in accordance with the Charitable Fundraising (NSW) Act 1991 and Regulations;
- c) money received as a result of fundraising appeal activities conducted during the period from 1 July 2007 to 30 June 2008 has been properly accounted for and applied in accordance with the Charitable Fundraising (NSW) Act 1991 and Regulations; and
- d) there are reasonable grounds to believe that The Anika Foundation will be able to pay its debts as and when they fall due.
